Top Cases in Commercial Litigation

Top Cases in Commercial Litigation is your opportunity to get up to speed on the notable commercial decisions and trends from the past year, and their implications for your practice. Litigators across Canada are welcome to join our speakers and the Commercial Litigation Practice Group for this much anticipated annual program.

Topics Include:

- The Supreme Court of Canada's most recent decision on the expanding duty of good faith in contractual relations in CM Callow Inc v Zollinger
- The first Canadian decisions to grapple with the interplay between COVID-19, contractual obligations and the doctrine of frustration

*Due to current concerns with COVID-19, this program will be broadcast online only.
